CONTRACTS

Barter offers between players — what you can trade, who can trade, the courier ticket, the notary fee, and the 24-hour life of an offer.

UPDATED 2026-10-10

A contract is a barter offer from one player to another: two lists, what you give and what you get. The other player has 24 hours to accept or reject it; unanswered, it expires. You can cancel your own offer while it is open. Open your contract box from the scroll icon at the top of the screen, or from a player's profile with Offer a contract. The box has three tabs: Incoming (offers waiting for you), Sent (your open offers) and History (finished contracts). You are notified when an offer reaches you, and when yours is accepted, rejected or expires.

WHAT YOU CAN TRADE

Gold, any of the ten currencies in your wallets, the seven raw materials, the three components (construction materials, fuel, electronics), energy drinks, and food, weapons, tickets and ships in any tier. Contracts are the only way to trade energy drinks, which the markets do not list.

- Both sides must give something: a contract is a trade, never a gift.
- Each side can hold up to six lines, and each item (with its tier) or currency appears only once per side.
- You can add a short note of up to 200 characters. It reaches the other player like a private message, so a player barred from private messages cannot attach one.

WHO CAN TRADE

- Both players need level 20 and an account at least 3 days old.
- You can send 10 contracts a day — 20 with Premium. The count resets at 00:00 UTC and includes every offer you sent that day, also the ones that were cancelled, rejected or expired.

- You cannot send one to yourself, to an inactive or banned player, or to someone who has blocked you.
- Embargoes apply: citizens of two countries under an embargo cannot trade by contract.
- Export bans apply: goods your country has banned from export cannot go to a citizen of another country, or to a player without a state, by contract either.

WHAT IT COSTS

There is no tax on a contract. Two things are paid instead.

Courier ticket. A courier carries the deal, so each side burns one ticket when the contract is accepted. The tier depends on the distance between the regions the two players stand in when the offer is sent:

DISTANCE	TICKET
up to 1,000 km	T1
1,000–3,000 km	T2
3,000–6,000 km	T3
6,000–10,000 km	T4
over 10,000 km	T5

Only that exact tier counts; without it the contract cannot be accepted.

Notary fee. Every country sets its own notary fee by law — 5, 10, 15 or 20 gold (5 by default); the Economy minister or the president can set it directly, and otherwise parliament votes on it. The player who sends the contract pays their own country's fee and the other player's country's fee; each goes to that country's treasury. Citizens of the same country pay it once. A stateless side costs a flat 10 gold, which is burned, and a fee owed to a country that no longer exists by the time of acceptance is burned too.

> Example: Admin (Türkiye, fee 10) offers 5 gold to Inrelisne (USA, fee 15) for 10 coal and 5 iron, about 8,000 km away. Admin pays 10 + 15 = 25 gold of notary fees; both burn a T4 ticket.

The composer shows the distance, the ticket tier and every fee before you send, and they stay fixed for the offer's 24 hours. To send, you must hold everything your side gives, both notary fees and your own courier ticket.

ACCEPTING

Nothing is locked while an offer waits. When the receiver accepts, the whole swap happens at once — both lists, both tickets, the fees — or not at all. At that moment the game checks again that:

- both players still hold everything they owe;
- both players' storage can take the goods coming to them;
- no embargo or export ban stands in the way — citizenships may have changed since the offer was sent;
- the sender has not become inactive or banned meanwhile.

If anything fails, the contract cannot be accepted and the message names who is short of what.

MODERATION

Staff review unusual one-sided transfers. Moving value to a second account breaks the rules — see Community Rules.
