BOOK GETTING STARTED

FIRST STEPS — THE CHRONICLE

Signing up, where you start and what you carry, and the Chronicle — the twenty-step story tutorial and the gold it pays.

UPDATED 2026-10-09

SIGNING UP

Registration is free and takes three short steps:

1. Identity — your e-mail, your citizen name and a password.
2. Homeland — your real-world country, your language, and an optional referral code (under "Invited by a friend?").
3. Seal — a 6-digit code arrives in your inbox; entering it proves the address is yours and creates your citizen.

A few rules worth knowing before you start:

- Citizen name: 3–24 characters, English letters, digits and underscores only. You can change it later in Settings for 50 gold.
- Password: at least 8 characters.
- Real-world country: shown as a small flag on your profile. It has nothing to do with your in-game citizenship.
- Referral code: a friend's code gives you +50 gold the moment your account is created. An invite link fills the code in for you. A code the game does not recognise is dropped — the account is still created, just without the bonus.

WHERE YOU START

You are placed in a random open region of the real-world country you are connecting from. If that country has no open region yet, you start in a random open region anywhere in the world. That region becomes your home region, and you become a citizen of the state that holds it. If the region is independent, you start stateless and your starting cash is in US dollars.

See Citizenship & the World Map for how to change your home later.

WHAT YOU START WITH

Every new citizen begins with:

- 50 gold;
- 500 in the local currency of your home state;
- 3 bread, 3 weapons and 3 tickets, all T1 — enough to eat, to strike and to fly from the first minute.

A welcome letter from the game's Admin account waits in your messages.

THE CHRONICLE

Your first days are told as a story. The Chronicler, keeper of the Book, walks you through the world in a prologue, five acts and an epilogue — 20 steps in all. The journal sits on your dashboard as Your Chronicle: it shows your progress (for example 6/20), the current act, why the next step matters and what to do, with a Go there button that takes you to the right page.

- Each act opens with a scene — a painting and a letter from the Chronicler. A scene opens once; Read the act again brings it back.
- On the page a step takes you to, a small note explains what you are looking at. Once the step is done it keeps the lesson and points to your next move.
- A gold ring marks the button or tab to press next.
- Finished steps stay in the journal as one-line lessons.

THE ACTS AND THEIR STEPS

ACT	STEPS	WHAT YOU DO
Prologue — Arrival	—	The Chronicler introduces the world.

ACT	STEPS	WHAT YOU DO
Act I — Bread and Work	1–8	Claim your supply drop · take a job · work a shift · train a stat · refill your energy · explore the world map · browse the local market · visit your country
Act II — Gold and Coin	9–12	See how buying works · open the sell desk · visit the currency desk · visit the global market
Act III — Home	13–15	Look at your city on the map · read the press · study your country up close
Act IV — Power	16–18	Visit the parties · visit the parliament · visit the elections
Act V — The Front	19–20	Visit the war room · enter a front
Epilogue — The Circle	—	The whole economy drawn as one wheel, and four paths to follow.

Steps that count real actions. Steps 6–8 and most later steps only ask you to open a page and look. Act I's first five steps are done by doing the thing itself: claiming the day's supply drop, holding a job, working a shift, training a stat, eating bread or drinking. Some count what you already did — a supply drop claimed earlier today, a job you already have, a stat you trained before, bread you ate today. A few later steps also finish from a real action: buying on a market completes step 9, and listing goods for sale completes step 10. Step 20 completes when you open a war or strike on a front; in peacetime, opening the war room is enough.

REWARDS

- Act I ends with a claim button: 50 gold + 500 local currency and a T1 starter kit of 5 weapons, 5 bread and 5 tickets. The kit is limited by your storage — whatever does not fit is not handed out.
- Acts II, III and IV pay 25 gold each, and Act V pays 30 gold, the moment their last step is done.

That is 155 gold in all, plus the cash and the kit.

Acts II–V open only after you have claimed Act I's reward. Claiming it is also what makes you a qualified referral for whoever invited you — see Daily Systems for the referral ladder.

THE EPILOGUE

After step 20 the Chronicler draws the Circle: energy becomes work, work fills the market, the market pays taxes, taxes fill the treasury, the treasury builds your city, and your city gives you back your energy — with the parliament at the centre steering taxes, treasury and war. Four paths lead on from there: the Merchant (companies), the Statesman (parties), the Soldier (the wars) and the Journalist (the press), plus a link to this Book.

SKIPPING AND RESTORING

Skip training (no reward) hides the Chronicle. If you skip before claiming Act I, its reward is forfeited and you do not count as a referral for the friend who invited you (unless you restore the Chronicle and finish Act I). If you skip later, the acts you had not finished pay nothing.

Skipped by accident? Settings → Preferences → Restore tutorial brings the journal back:

- skipped before Act I's claim — you start over from the beginning, and steps you already do every day complete on their own; finishing Act I pays its reward for the first time;
- skipped after Act I — you resume from the start of the first act you had not been paid for.

No act ever pays twice. Once all five acts are paid there is nothing to restore.

> TIP
>
> Do the Chronicle before anything else. Most of it is a few page visits, it pays 155 gold plus the cash and the kit, and by the end you will know where everything in the game lives.

← PREVIOUS OVERVIEW

NEXT →
ENERGY & WORK