BOOK GETTING STARTED

OVERVIEW

What Parlamentum is, how the world fits together, and where to go next.

UPDATED 2026-10-09

WELCOME TO PARLAMENTUM

Parlamentum is a persistent, player-run geopolitical MMO played on a real-world map. There are no NPCs and no script: every weapon, every loaf of bread, every tax rate, every headline and every border is produced or decided by a citizen like you.

You spawn into a real region of your own real-world country, picked at random among its playable regions (or anywhere on the map if your country has none open yet). You become a citizen of the state that holds that region — or a stateless citizen if the region is independent. You arrive with 50 gold, 500 in local cash (US dollars in an independent region) and three each of T1 bread, weapons and tickets, and step into a world that was already moving before you arrived.

> TIP
>
> New here? Your dashboard opens the Chronicle, the guided tutorial. Its first eight steps end with 50 gold, 500 in local cash and a T1 starter kit (5 weapons, 5 bread, 5 tickets, as far as your storage allows); the later steps (9–20) pay 25, 25, 25 and 30 gold as each act closes. Getting Started walks you through it — do that first, then come back to this guide.

THE FOUR PILLARS

Parlamentum is one connected world, but it runs on four systems that feed into each other. Everything below is fully live.

PILLAR	WHAT YOU DO	START HERE
Economy	Extract raw resources, refine them in factories, hire citizens, and trade on markets no algorithm touches.	Companies & Production · Markets, Tax & FX
Politics	Join a party, win elections, command the treasury, and settle tax and war by law.	Parties & Elections · Parliament & Laws
War	Turn energy and player-made weapons into damage on live fronts that run for 24 hours (a naval war: a 24-hour landing, then a 24-hour assault). Regions change hands when the damage decides it.	War & the Front
Press	Run a newspaper, hire editors, and compete for readers' weekly	Journalism & the

THE CORE LOOP

1. Work & train — convert energy into wages and goods, and gold and time into stats.
2. Produce & trade — found companies and buy or sell on player-run markets.
3. Fight & govern — arm yourself, push the front, and shape the law.
4. Report & influence — publish the story of it all and steer public opinion.

Every loop feeds the next: wages buy weapons, weapons win wars, wars are declared by laws, laws are passed by the people you elected — and the whole thing is chronicled by player-run newspapers.

> IMPORTANT
>
> Nothing in Parlamentum resets and nothing is scripted. A war that ends today leaves the map redrawn tomorrow; a tax passed this week changes every wage next week.

WHERE TO GO NEXT

- Just starting? Getting Started covers the tutorial and your first days; then read Energy & Work and Leveling & Training — the two loops you'll repeat most.
- Every day? Daily Systems lists the supply drop, missions, achievements, referrals and Golden Hours.
- Wondering what a stat is for? Stats explains all three.
- Lost on the map? Reading the Map explains its modes, markers and region panels.

- Picking a country? Citizenship & the World covers regions, borders, travel and how nations form.
- Thinking about Premium or gold? Shop & Premium lists what is for sale, what Premium does and how Auto Mode works.
- Changing your name, e-mail or password? Account & Settings covers your settings and your profile.
- Want the exact numbers? Every formula lives on the Formula Reference.
- Curious what changed? See the latest update or the running minor updates log.

> NOTE
>
> This documentation grows with the game. If a system feels under-explained, it's on our list — the Book is in active development alongside the beta. Update notes are published in English only.
